In a hospital, ensuring cleanliness is an extremely important factor for the health of patients, customers and employees. A clean environment also contributes to preventing the risk of dangerous disease transmission. The process of collecting and transporting waste at the hospital is extremely important. Classify waste according to each category: recyclable waste, household waste, medical waste. After classifying waste, employees are required to use protective equipment when collecting. These activities will be carried out by experienced cleaning staff who are professionally trained in cleaning procedures and using high quality cleaning tools and chemicals.

Products & Services

Industrial Zone Factories, Warehouses

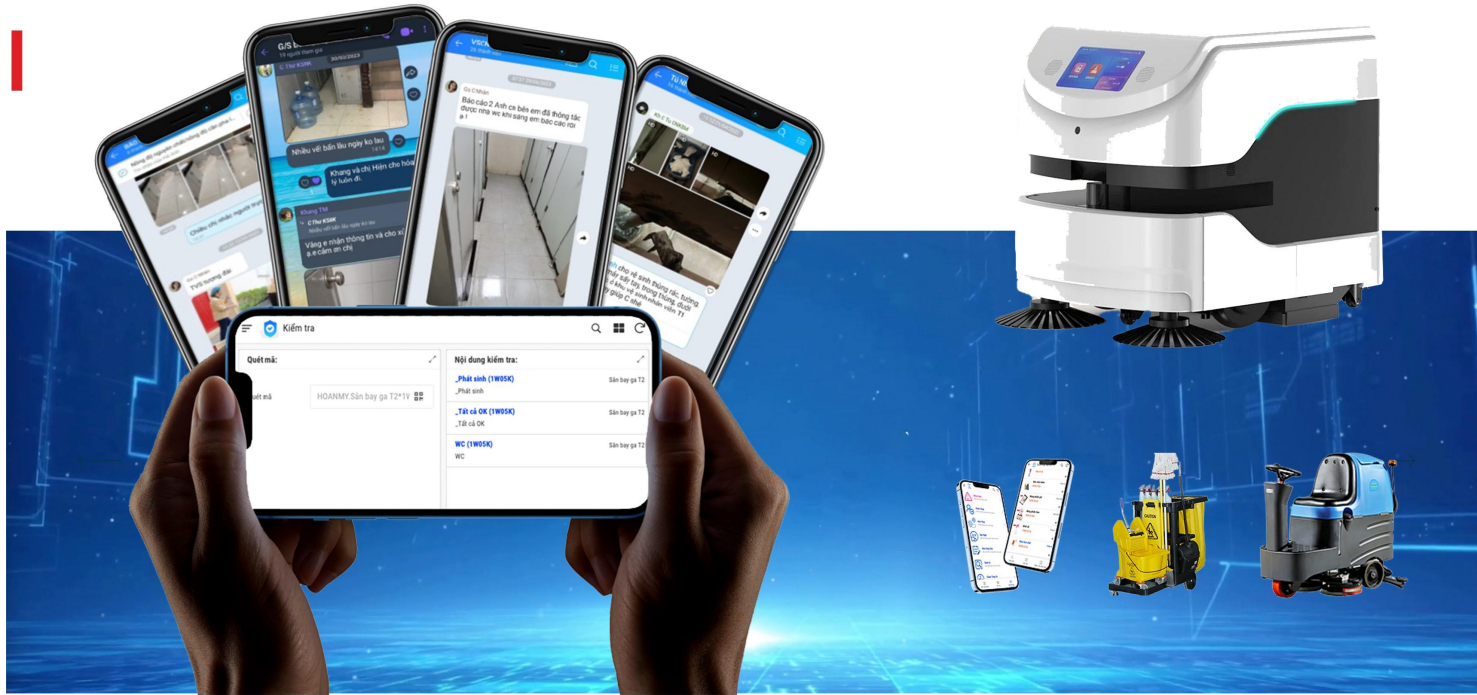

Industrial cleaning services help reduce future maintenance and repair costs. This means businesses won't have to spend a lot of money replacing equipment or repairing them too often.

With the large quantities of products and materials stored and transported daily, keeping these areas clean and safe is a very difficult task and should be carried out by industrial hygienists.

Outstanding customers:

Quang Minh Industrial Zone, Hanoi
Dai An Industrial Zone, Hai Duong
Dong Van Industrial Zone, Ha Nam
Bao Minh Industrial Zone, Nam Dinh
Binh Son Oil Filter Factory, Quang Ngai

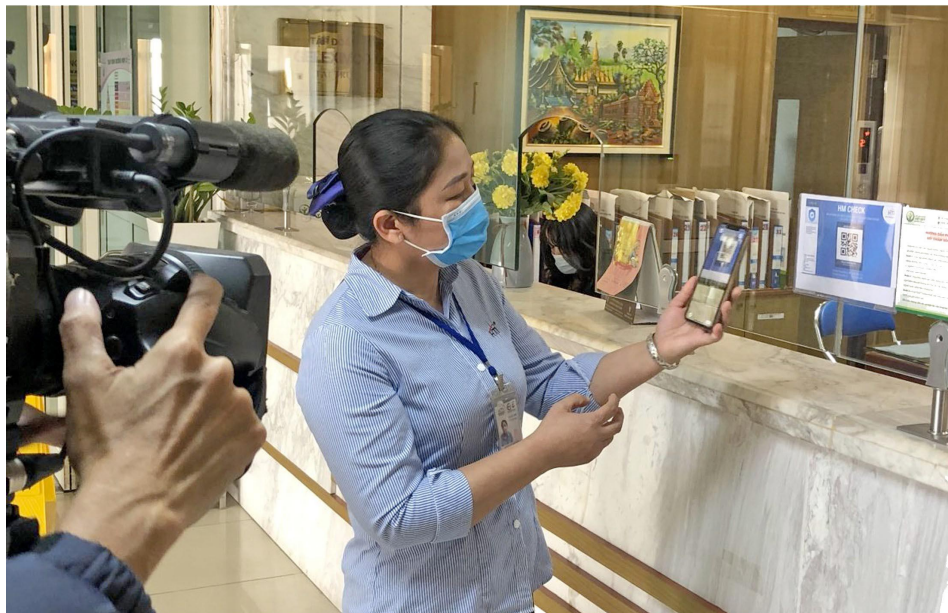

Digitalization and Sustainable Growth

The application of automation machinery in cleaning is becoming a popular trend in modern industries. Automated machines can perform cleaning tasks with greater efficiency, faster and more reliably than when done by hand. Applications for cleaning machinery may include automatic vacuum systems, automatic dishwashers, and automatic surface cleaning systems.

Automated machinery increases productivity and reduces labor costs, while improving product quality and saving time. In addition, they also reduce the risk of occupational accidents and make the working environment safer.

For Hoan My, 2022 marks an important step forward in building, designing and deploying smart timekeeping applications, helping all employee groups in the company unify information and conveniently report. With this program, Hoan My Co., Ltd. commits to providing the internal system with a reliable timekeeping solution, making human resource management easier and more effective than ever.

With the smart timekeeping application, employees can log in and out quickly and easily, and update their information and work schedule accurately and conveniently.
